

With 36 years in policing I am in no doubt of the value of Neighbourhood Watch and the commitment of volunteers.

The three areas related to my plans where I know NHW can and do contribute is.

1. Making people feel safer, build community cohesion.
2. Energising people to help counter such matters as Anti-Social Behaviour; from fly tipping to reckless driving to burglary. Whether it is noting who and what is doing it or dialling 999 it all counts.
3. Acting as a conduit for people to bring matters of concern to police and vice versa. I recall in my first term as PCC apart from rearranging funding so that Surrey was the only force in the country to actually employ more officers rather than cut them. I started to try and introduce software to improve communication between coordinators and police.

Whether I am elected or not, please keep doing what you do. It makes a difference.
